

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An electronic device receives information associated with power supply control transmitted from a server and controls a selection of power sources from among an AC power source and a secondary power supply
5 such as a battery on the basis of the received information associated with power supply control.